GRADUATED INCOME TAX ACT DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Ruling is Given Today by the State Supreme Court

A STUNNING BLOW

Decision Affects Tens of Thousands of Penna.
Workers

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—A graduated income tax act passed before the last session of the Legislature to produce approximately $32,000,000 during the current biennial real estate tax, was declared unconstitutional today by the State Supreme Court.

The decision came as a stunning blow to the state administration as the policy was regarded as a key policy of Governor George Earle's—that taxes should be lifted on the basis of ability to pay. The ruling affects tens of thousands of Pennsylvania workers who would have had to pay 8% on incomes of more than $100,000.

The opinion was read by Justice Robert Frazer immediately after court opened here today.

Fidelity of the measure was challenged by Joseph Kelley, a Philadelphia taxpayer, and others on the strength it is valid, and constitutional, that "all taxes should be uniform."

Attorney General Margiotti upheld the validity of the act in argument for the state at Pittsburgh on September 30th. He was opposed by former United States Senator David A. Reed and others.

In two previous tests by the Supreme Court, acts of the administration were upheld. One victory was gathered when the court approved the tax anticipation note plan and the other with the high tribunal of the anti party raiding act.

If the act had been held constitutional the income tax would have been distributed to school districts on the basis of position and on condition that they make proportionate reductions in their real estate taxes.

The measure was supported by Governor Earle who declared it was essential to remedy a "loosely unfair condition" that compels real estate taxes to furnish 90% of the Commonwealth's revenue, while 60% of the state wealth is estimated to be in personal property.

ADMINISTRATION BACKS DOWN ON STEEL IMPORTS

Public Protests the Spending of Federal Relief Funds to Buy Foreign Goods

LABOR OPPOSES IT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Forced by a mighty protest from organized labor, speaking through the American Federation of Labor, the industrial interests of the country, and American generally who believe in protecting American industry and labor, the Roosevelt Administration has been compelled to right-about-face in its policy of permitting federal funds, appropriated to relieve unemployment, to be expended in the purchase of products manufactured abroad to be used in public works construction in this country.

The case in point was the purchase of foreign steel by the Tri-Borough Bridge Authority of New York City to be used in public construction under the direction of the federal P. W. A.

Following the announcement that such steel had been purchased in Germany and was in shipment, protests were filed by American steel industries. Probably because they were nothing more than American industries, the Administration treated their protests contemptuously.

Then the American Federation of Labor filed a most vigorous protest against giving employment to workers in foreign countries out of the funds appropriated by the Congress to relieve unemployment in this country. Simultaneously with labor protests, public opinion began to be asserted through the columns of the public press. As a result, Secretary Ickes addressed a letter to President Groves, of the American Federation of Labor, and released it to the press November 13. In that letter Secretary Ickes said:

"Let me, first of all, tell you in no uncertain terms that it is not the intention, nor has it ever been the intention, of P. W. A., to permit the use of money voted by Congress for relief purposes to be used for the purchase of foreign materials on project construction."

Unfortunately for Mr. Ickes, the record is against him. He himself issued a pamphlet entitled "Rules and Regulations Relating to Applicants and Projects Under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935." The pamphlet is designated as "P. W. A. Form No. 179, Issued July, 1935." Paragraph 7, page 10, sets forth the following rule relative to the purchase of foreign material:

"Materials.—(a) Domestic.—In the performance of this contract the contractor, sub-contractors, materialmen, or suppliers shall use only such unmanufactured articles, materials, and supplies as have been mined or produced in the United States, and only such manufactured articles, materials, and supplies as have been manufactured in the United States substantially all from articles, materials, or supplies mined, produced, or manufactured, as the case may be, in the United States, except, unless otherwise required by law, foreign materials, articles, or supplies may be purchased if the foreign materials, articles, or supplies are lower in cost after the following differentials are applied in favor of domestic articles, materials, or supplies:

"On purchases where the foreign bid is $100 or less, a differential of 100% will apply;

"On purchases where the foreign bid exceeds $100, but is less than $10,000, a differential of 25% will apply;

"On purchases where the foreign bid is $10,000 or more, a differential of 15% will apply."

It will be noted that this rule expressly states that "unless otherwise required by law" foreign materials and supplies may be purchased if they are lower in cost, after the differentials named are applied.

When the National Industrial Recovery Act was before the Senate, Republicans attempted to have an amendment adopted forbidding the use of foreign materials in any public construction work. The Democrats, under Administration orders, refused to accept the amendment. (It must be remembered that the P. W. A. is still functioning under Title II of the National Industrial Recovery Act. This title was not in litigation inasmuch as it pertained exclusively to the Public Works Administration, and was not affected by the decision of the Supreme Court, which declared Title

tions Sponsor

MUSICAL NUMBERS

NEWTOWN, Nov. 25.—A meeting in the interests of peace was conducted in Newtown Hall yesterday at four p. m., with 300 attending. The sponsoring organizations were: the churches of Newtown, George School, Newtown public schools, New Century Club, Newtown W. C. T. U., League of Women Voters of this borough, and the local American Legion post.

The speaker of the afternoon, Frederick J. Libby, secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, Washington, D. C., was introduced by George Walton, headmaster of George School, who was the presiding officer.

Present war conditions were spoken of by Mr. Libby who stressed the danger of the United States being drawn into conflicts. He gave many reasons why this country should keep out of the conflicts; and told of the dangers from Communistic activities in this country. "The United States is spending this year one billion dollars for armaments, and this is unnecessary." The address, one hour in length, was eagerly listened to, and contained much food for thought.

Other numbers of the afternoon included selections by a male quartette from Newtown Presbyterian Church; and solos by Mrs. J. T. Hammond, of the Newtown Baptist Church.

The program was outlined by a committee representing various organizations in the borough, the chairman being Dr. W. A. Roberts. This meeting was the result of initial efforts on the part of local organizations to further the cause of peace. Immediately after yesterday's session the committee in charge met with Mr. Libby and made plans for future meetings. This same committee will have a session tomorrow evening in Arcade Hall.

Fear Drive Against Catholic Clergy

Berlin today feared a drive against the Catholic clergy and church officials, suspected of activity against the Nazi state. Such a drive was expected by Saturday night. The raid is a result of activity of an "inside man" and it was carried out without warning for an official warrant.

In addition to Monsignor Danasch, the bishop who was arrested by secret police, was Herr Boese, one of the secular clergymen, it was learned by I. N. S. today.

It was learned the raid was to be followed with charges of evasion of the currency law. Saturday night the surprise raid was carried out on the bishop's palace, and it was the chief gathering place of Catholics. I. N. S. definitely established that both men were being held at the Labrecht-Strasse headquarters of the secret police, pending study of documents.

It was not expected charges would be filed against Count Preyding, but Catholics feared there might develop a campaign against them as the police extend their drive along the line.

TO RESUME EXCAVATIONS SOON AT PENN'S MANOR

Dr. Lester K. Ade, Sup't. of Public Instruction, Tells of
Plans for the Work

MAY GET FED'L FUNDS

Archaeological research excavations are to be resumed at "Pennsbury," the county home of William Penn to the northeast of Bristol.

Resumption of these activities is announced by Dr. Lester K. Ade, superintendent of public instruction, and chairman of the State Historical Commission, following approval of the work by Edward N. Jones, State Administrator of the Works Progress Administration. Donald A. Cadzow, archaeologist for the commission, has started twelve men on work that will continue for about six months.

Several years ago the Historical Commission placed Cadzow in charge of archaeological excavations on the location of what was once Pennsbury Manor, on the banks of the Delaware River about twenty-five miles above Philadelphia. Foundations of the manor or house and of the brew house were uncovered and charted, and sufficient materials were found in the ruins for the commission's architect and archaeologists to picture the general exterior and interior of the large house.

With the information previously obtained, architect's plans are being drawn of the manor and brew houses in the hope that eventually they may be rebuilt and make Pennsbury a State shrine in honor of the founder of the Commonwealth, who recently was chosen for representation in the Hall of Fame at New York University. In the WPA project just starting the commission hopes to obtain data on the exact location, size and nature of the construction materials used in the bake-house, stable and other buildings which surrounded the original manor house started in 1682.

When these studies are completed, the Historical Commission is hopeful of receiving allocation of Federal funds for complete restoration of Pennsbury Manor as it existed 250 years ago. Application has been made for such funds.

WHAT IS WETTER THAN WET?

(By "The Stroller")

Those in distress always find a friend. It has been proven over and over again.

As an example let us cite the case of the four people, two men, a woman, and a small girl, who suddenly found themselves in the cold waters of the canal last week.

After making shore safely around the hour of midnight, they sought shelter in a Mill street restaurant. Soon an automobile was ready to transport two of them to a hospital, and the ever-present kind friend obligingly awaited at the door with an umbrella, and carefully held it aloft over the pair until the car was reached, seemingly unmindful of the fact that water was oozing from every portion of the couples' clothing.

Fred Astaire Woos Fair Ginger Rogers With Dance

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers say it with lyrics and dance steps in "Top Hat," their lavishly produced new musical comedy at Grand Monday and Tuesday to introduce a most novel way of telling a screen love story. Practically all of their love scenes in the picture are song and dance numbers, in which the lyrics and the movements of the dances express more than pages of ordinary dialogue could.

For their unique love scenes, the stars have the songs of Irving Berlin, who wrote the first complete screen musical score of his career for the picture. The score comprises six songs, each of which was written to fit a situation of the story.

London, England, and the Lido, Italy, are the locales of the story, with picturesque backgrounds adding to the romantic flavor. The feature dance of the picture the "Piccolino," is done on especially colorful settings where canals, drifting gondolas and graceful bridges add their pictorial appeal to the thrill of music and the poetry of rhythmic motion.

A mixed chorus of thirty girls and thirty boys do an ensemble arrangement of the "Piccolino," under the direction of Hermes Pan. A chorus of dancing men also appear with Astaire in the "Top Hat" number of the picture.

Do you know there is a demand for stoves of all descriptions? Advertise the one you don't need, in the Courier.—(Advertisement.)

COUNTY STUDENT COUNCIL MEETS AT BENSALEM SCHOOL

Twelve Schools Represented at Two Meetings on Saturday

NAME NEW OFFICERS

Three From Bristol Council
Speak On Subject
Assigned

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Nov. 25.—Twelve schools sent representatives to the meeting of the Bucks County Association of Student Councils held in the Bensalem Township high school library, Saturday. The group included 11 member schools, and one visiting delegation from Quakertown, which group plans to organize a student council.

The officer in charge was the president, who is a student at Morrisville school. At each election officers are chosen by schools. Thus on Saturday, during election period, Buckingham school was named to have the next president, who will be appointed by that school. The new vice-president will come from Falls Township school; and the secretary from Langhorne.

Each student council was represented by three or more members and the council advisor. Approximately 45 were in attendance. The first session of the day got under way at 9.30 a. m., and the second session ended during the late afternoon. Luncheon was served in the cafeteria.

During the morning hours the students discussed methods of increasing membership in the county association; and also considered means of meeting expenses of the county group. No dues are levied at present, and as certain expenses must be met, time was given to this topic Saturday.

A decision was made to make a survey of the schools in the county which have no student councils, and these will be encouraged to organize.

Each school was assigned a topic for Saturday's meetings, and many speeches were delivered. The subject assigned to Bristol council was "Different organization projects in the school sponsored by the Student Council." Speakers were Miss Anna Hoffman, Fred Randall and George Brown. The Bristol Student Council advisor, Miss Mildred Fabian, was also in attendance.

Unveil White Elephant Following Church Service

A large white elephant, representative of a debt of the Bristol M. E. Church, was unveiled following the morning service yesterday in the church auditorium.

The elephant is divided into numerous cross sections representing contributions of $25, $10, $5, $2, $1 and 50 cents.

The entrance of the elephant was a surprise to many of the congregation, but when they were acquainted with the purpose and how it was proposed to drive this creature from the church, with the propulsion of contributions from the membership, there was a generous response.

As pledges are made the names are listed on a large space in front of the elephant and then as these pledges are paid a cross section corresponding to the amount paid, is painted gray and thus the white elephant is removed from the edifice.

Pledges yesterday totaled $557.50 and cash paid was $178.

The white elephant is very conspicuous upon a red background which measures eight feet square.

Keen enthusiasm has been aroused over the unique method of raising money and the membership and friends of the church are entering wholeheartedly into the campaign.

LIFE'S UNCERTAINTY

Among all the fearsome things, uncertainty is most potent. And when Mother Earth herself threatens to shake us; when our homes may tumble down upon us, life's uncertainty reaches a climax.

It was Thomas Carlyle who called attention to the instability of all human institutions. "Our whole being," he said, "is an infinite abyss, overarched by habit, as a thin earth-rind, laboriously built together."

And some will say how like is the peril to our civilization, dependent on international good will and the bond of common humanity, when it is shaken by racial prejudices and national greed. What might not be the result of another world war conducted under modern conditions?

Carlyle continued the figure: "Let but your thin earth-rind be once broken! The fountains of the great deep boil forth, fire fountains, enveloping, engulfing. Your earth-rind is shattered, swallowed up. Instead of a green, flowery world, there is a waste wild weltering chaos, which has again with tumult and struggle to make itself into a world."

The wisdom of man has evolved no defense against earthquake, but it is struggling with the problem of the possible cataclysm of the social system. Meanwhile in Europe and Africa the earth-rind appears to be pretty thin and shaky.

WHY MEN GO HUNTING

Annually at this season deer hunters are sternly taken to task by the humanitarians for their indulgence of the "killer" instinct. That there are ruthless killers among the army of men who shoulder rifles and invade our forests no one can doubt. It is probable, however, that the number of these and the savagery of their disposition is greatly overestimated.

The majority of hunters, we believe, have no insatiable craving for blood, and in fact are rather relieved if chance spares them the sight of a buck and the sporting obligation of putting a bullet through it. Hardly one hunter in 10 ever makes a kill, and yet we can't remember one who, on his return home, looked particularly downcast over his failure.

It is our conviction that men are drawn to the woods mainly by a homesickness for the woods themselves. They like to hear dry leaves crackling under foot, to smell the frosty air of a November morning, to rest quietly in solitude among trees and water and sky. From To put it bluntly, they love Nature, but they are secretly ashamed of this taste; and they know no way of explaining and justifying it to others, or even to themselves. Accordingly, they seize the excuse of hunting, and carry weapons as a visible evidence that they are really on some reasonable mission for which, as he-men, they need not blush.

A girl foot baller, playing center on a Connecticut school team, is described as "asking no quarter." There are amateurs in the game, if one but looks.

Four of the five Dionne tots are up and walking. Out of consideration for her tender age, the name of the leader is not disclosed.

A wholly satisfactory November and a cut-rate postoffice are hard to find.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol, May 21, 1874. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

On Saturday afternoon, Harry Baker, while out gunning, met with what might have been a very serious accident, but fortunately he escaped with but a slight scratch. His gun burst in the breach of the left hand barrel, but owing to the thickness of the stock his hands were protected though the stock was blown to pieces. Harry was struck in the forehead by the barrel, which knocked him down, stunning him for a little while. The breech pin cut his coat sleeve, this, with the scratch, being the sum total of his injuries.

Last Monday W. E. Morris, of Philadelphia, civil and hydraulic engineer, paid Bristol a visit, for the purpose of making a hasty survey of our borough for the erection of Water Works. L. A. Hoguet, chairman of the Water Committee, called the Committee together in the afternoon. Mr. Morris offered to make a survey and estimate for the sum of $250, which the committee authorized him to do. It will take about two weeks to prepare the estimate. After some discussion concerning the streets through which the pipe will be laid, the committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

Quite a number of deer mounds belonging to the citizens of New Hope and Lambertville have been stolen during the past few weeks. Constable Solomon has succeeded in restoring about a dozen to their owners, having found them in the cabins of canal boats; no arrests.

The carpenters are busily engaged in putting up the seats in the basement of the new Methodist Church of New Hope. It will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies, Sunday, June 7th, and eminent speakers from around are expected to be present.

The Baptists propose to build a parsonage on their church grounds on Walnut street. The sum of $2,000 has already been subscribed. We understand they desire to raise $3,500 for the building.

A back-yard is about to be established at Hathoro. This small village is now supplied with nearly all the conveniences of many of our larger towns.

About one hundred probationers of the M. E. Church at Tullytown will be immersed by the Presiding Elder some time next month.

A few days ago a shad was caught at the Gloucester Fishery which weighed 94 pounds. This is said to be the largest shad caught in the Delaware river for 17 years.

We learn the Rogers Brothers are now buying corn and rye at fifty-six pounds to the bushel. This being the lawful weight they have thought it would be more satisfactory to the sellers of grain than the former practice of requiring sixty pounds to the bushel.

On next Thursday a grand celebration in honor of the 15th Amendment will be held at Burlington, N. J. The procession will form on the Common, parade through the principal streets to the City Hall, where popular speakers will entertain the audience. Military companies, bands of music, and other features will add to the interest of the occasion.

WARMINSTER—Our district is notorious for its monotony, and yet the railroad seems to have awakened a spirit of enterprise in many of our citizens, and they are beautifying their residences as well as tilling the soil. Rachel Hart has her new porch completed and house painted. Mr. Minard has a handsome iron railing extended the full length of his place. Simon McNaile is about to lay a plank walk along the front of his lot. Cornell Hopewell is erecting a large barn on his farm near Davisville. Joseph Jarrett has built a new henery on his father's farm.

On Friday last Howard Roberts, a young man living with Edward Bunting, on the Remsen farm near Andalusia, while running a power hay cutter, had his hand caught by the revolving knives of the machine, and the hand, wrist, and the lower third part of his arm were divided. The accident was caused through the endeavor of Roberts to replace a sheet iron covering over the knives. The Doctors Comly amputated the arm below the elbow on the afternoon the accident occurred.

HULMEVILLE—Friday last, was a memorable day in Hulmeville. As announced, the grand horticultural display took place, which as far as grandness was in question, was truly a success. The display, for its size, I do not think was hardly ever surpassed; it was truly gorgeous. The great attraction was the collection of John Paget, gardener to N. Middleton, Esq. . . . The committee to judge of the merits of the collection were Mrs. J. S. Mitchell, Miss Lizzie Willard and Mr. J. Sharp.

An "Olde Folkes Concerte" will be given in the Neshaminy Church at Hartsville, next Thursday evening, the 28th instant.

HULMEVILLE

There were 481 people served at the annual supper of the Neshaminy M. E. Church, Saturday evening. This supper, which is gaining more fame annually, attracted families from points as far as 35 and 40 miles away. A large number of articles were also sold at the fancy work table.

Following visits to relatives in Newtown and Fallsington, Mrs. Margaret Longhurst returned to her home on Friday.

The sedan of Mrs. Raymond Vornhold was stolen from a Philadelphia street, Friday evening, as she was visiting relatives. The car was recovered Saturday morning, being found parked at Penn Valley Park.

Mrs. Joseph O. Canby will be hostess on Wednesday evening to members of Hulmeville Woman's Christian Temperance Union, at her home.

DEER "WAYLAYS" HUNTER

MUNICH—(INS)—A deer which had broken its leg "waylaid" a hunter at Wadduettelbrunn, North Bavaria, in order to get help. When the man, Karl Wahl, stepped out of his hut, he found the deer waiting for him. He got the animal into a cart and drove to the nearest veterinary surgeon. The deer's leg is now healed—and the animal eats out of Wahl's hand.

7 LB. MUSHROOM FOUND

PARIS—(INS)—A mushroom weighing 7 lbs. was found in the pine woods of Vouvan, near Rochefort, France. It had a circumference of 44½ inches.

Therefore, when Mr. Ickes issued the rule above quoted, he knew that there was no law prohibiting the purchase of foreign materials, and his rule permits the purchase of foreign materials under the conditions he sets forth.

If Secretary Ickes, and back of him, President Roosevelt, never had the intention of permitting money voted by Congress for relief purposes to be used for the purchase of foreign materials on construction work, why did Mr. Ickes put it in his rules, which he sent to every contractor and which every contractor was bound to obey.

If it was merely an oversight, why did not Secretary Ickes, and the Administration back of him, take action instantly the contract let by the Triborough Bridge Authority to the Kloeckner Steel Corporation, of Germany, became known? Why did they not act upon the protests of the steel corporations?

The answer is obvious. The Administration is committed to free trade. It is against the protection of American interests. It is not only formulating its policy to permit the importation of foreign manufactured articles, but its A. A. A. policy is encouraging the importation of agricultural products. ## "WIFE IN CUSTODY" by BEATRICE LUBITZ

SYNOPSIS

Helen Schiller, pretty manicurist in the Forty-fourth Street branch of the swanky Anastasia Beauty Salons, so far forgot discipline one morning as to dance a few steps before the work-day began—and was seen by Walter Riley, owner of the salons. He did not speak then about this, but returning that evening to the shop, went to her—and found himself disarmed by her smile, and attracted to her. He asked if he might take her to dance, and she assented. That led to other evenings together—evenings spent with him ever after that, his sisters who managed the Anastasia Salons for him, might see him.

After one evening at the theatre, Helen fell asleep as he drove her to her home in Bay Ridge—and he awakened her with a light kiss. She pushed him away, but he would not be denied, and he kissed her again. "You are the first girl I have ever kissed," he told her soberly, realizing that he loved her. Events in the Riley family followed fast, with Irene, who managed the swanky Fifty-seventh Street Salon, marrying the socially-elect Dirk Terhune. After the ceremony, Walter took Stella to the Forty-fourth Street branch. He was to meet Helen that evening.

CHAPTER XI

"Walter, you're not prejudiced against Jerry like the others!" Stella's voice rose hysterically. "They're all against him because they're jealous. He is working hard. He has a devil of a job there in Brooklyn. Mama ran that place down so that it will take months for Jerry to build it up. It isn't fair." She was crying now. "We can't maintain our apartment unless you give him more money. I could contribute more myself but I don't want it to come from me. I want Jerry to feel he's earned it so that he'll have his self-respect and not feel I'm supporting him. Look at our expenses and look at Agnes'. She's living with mama and it doesn't cost her half as much to live on Park Avenue as it does us on 12th Street." She sobbed pathetically. Out of the corner of her eye she watched the effect. She knew Walter was no match for tears.

"Stop sniveling," he commanded roughly. "Can't you talk without waterworks? All right, I'll give him a hundred and seventy-five and not a cent more and you can tell him for me that unless he jacks up he's going to be fired. I came in yesterday and found him with his feet on his desk smoking and reading a magazine. I'm not going to support him while he neglects my business."

"You're supporting Eddie," she flared.

"I'm not. Ethel is and she can do what she likes with her money. Ethel's shop is as efficiently run as the best. But I put Jerry in charge of one of my shops, at your demand, and I'm telling you unless he makes good, I'm going to chuck him out."

Stella repaired her make-up. She knew perfectly well Walter would do nothing of the kind so long as she could keep and Walter was Walter.

"All right, Walter dear. Let me talk to Jerry. He's so sensitive. Maybe he has seemed to be laying down on the job but it's only because it's all so new to him. He's terribly clever, Jerry. Really, he's nearly as clever as you. You'll see one of these days he'll do something big for you."

Walter snorted as he parked the car but said nothing. Together they came into the salon. Here was the usual mid-Winter afternoon bustle.

"What did you leave here, Walt?"

"Oh, I'll find it. I left it in Miss Gerneth's office."

Stella disappeared into her office. Walter looked into the salon through the glass partition. There she was intent on her work. If only she would look up he would signal her to step out a moment. But Helen didn't look up.

Walter went into the vault and scribbled a note on a slip of paper. But how could he get it to her? He gnawed his mustache with desperation. She was so near to him and yet she might have been in Alaska for all the good her proximity did him. They had to eat in small obscure restaurants, meet in out-of-the-way places, and they rode for miles looking for small movie houses where they would not be indanger of being recognized. In a way, of course, it was fun. At least Helen made an exciting sport of it, but Walter was proud and he hated this sub-rosa courtship. Or was it courtship? Walter didn't dare to think further. He knew he loved her; he desired her. But to marry her! His mother's rage; his sisters' ambitions.

He thought angrily: "I'll marry whom I please. . . . And yet he was afraid of being seen with her. He ground his teeth in rage at his cowardice. He was a coward. His women had made a coward of him. It sickened him to think of it. And now Helen. He loved her. Her innocence was sweet as a flower.

"I feel less like a cad if I tell you everything, Helen; I love you."

her startled fear at his loveliness and yet her eager response. But what a storm of rage there'd be if he married her. He'd close and bring her home as his wife! There'd be hell to pay. Damn it, if only she'd come out!

But she didn't come out and Walter was finally forced to leave without seeing her. Outside he hired a telegraph messenger to deliver the note.

It was so easy to talk to Helen. That night over their dinner in a restaurant in the downtown business district, patronized at night mainly by men and women who chose it for the same reason that Walt did, he told her frankly his position.

"I feel less like a cad if I tell you everything, Helen; I love you. I really do. But my family would object to our marriage."

"I'll tell you what, Helen. We'll wait. I'll plant the idea of my marrying you and slowly they'll have to accept it. In the meantime, we'll just be engaged. After all, I need them. I need them as much as they do me. You see I owe them so much," he explained wearily. "Everything I have I owe to them."

"Walter, why are you so afraid?"

"I'm afraid" was on her lips. Instead she asked, "Why are you so worried about your sisters?"

"I don't know," he confessed.

"After all, it is my business. I own every penny's worth of it. You see my sister Irene was the first one in the beauty parlor business. Mother made her a manicurist when she graduated from public school. We were all kids and terribly poor. My father ran away from my mother. Irene started to work when she was thirteen."

"Poor Irene," Helen interjected compassionately.

the house in which Irene's shop was located came up for sale for non-payment of taxes. I don't know what prompted me, but I actually forced mama to buy it and to close up our dirty little hardware store. There was a nice flat over the shop in which we could live.

"Mama wouldn't listen to the others, but she always listened to me. But it was like spilling blood for her to hand over her money. I had to make her a proposition that she lend me the money and I'd buy the building and I'd pay her back the money with interest. She agreed to that, but only after I practically signed my life away!"

"So I left high school and Irene got me a job for a beauty supply house. I bought the property and started in at once paying back my debt to mama. I suppose I'd still be paying it to her if I hadn't had luck. Selling beauty products took me out all over greater New York and I found the place on Fulton Street where Jerry is now. I persuaded Agnes to open up a shop there and to build up a trade, because it was a good location. I got her all the supplies free—I'm afraid I wasn't quite as ethical as I might have been—but anyway I guaranteed Agnes' salary and I borrowed further and financed the venture. Pretty soon I was making a profit out of Fulton Street, thanks to Agnes. She's a human dynamo for work—at least she used to be."

"The city bought the Ninth Street house when they widened the street. I made eight thousand dollars on the sale—paid off mama, paid my debts and started the Thirty-fourth Street shop."

BRISTOL HIGH TRIUMPHS OVER QUAKERTOWN XI.

By Jack Orr
QUAKERTOWN, Nov. 25.—Hitting an unexpected breather in their schedule, Bristol High defeated a band of crippled lads of Quakertown High by the count of 32-0, here, on Saturday.

The Quakers with nine injured players were in no position to give the Bristol Bunnies a contest. Coach Gene Stoneback of the Blue and White is building his club for years to come and did not attempt to shove in his injured regulars against the stronger Cardinal and Gray eleven.

This victory was the sixth of the campaign for the Dougherty-coached crew. Twice they have tasted the bitter cup of defeat and once they were held to a tie.

Bristol counted once in each of the first three periods and finished up in a blaze of glory against the crippled home lads by counting fourteen points.

The initial score of the game came early in the opening period. With the ball on the twenty-eight yard line, Jules Zefferi scampered around end for seventy-two yards and a score. A line buck attempt at extra point was no good.

The Cardinal and Gray added another in the second period. A reverse executed although a fumble occurred, from Tony Orazi to Ray Phillips was good for ten yards and a score. The break which put the ball in scoring position came when Hal Schissler dropped Dom Sagolla's 80 yard kick, and it was recovered by Carm Gullato. A pass for the extra point was incomplete.

In the third period the Bunnies counted their third touchdown on a perfectly executed pass with a lateral on the end. Harry Bauroth tossed a forty yard pass to John Messinelli who lateraled to Al Profy, subbing for Brother Tom, and scored. Another pass was incomplete in the attempt for the conversion.

In the final period Bristol High really went to work. Dom Sagolla, Cardinal and Gray quarterback, opened up with everything he had and counted a pair of scores.

The first came as a result of best runback of a punt seen by a Bristol man this year. Taking the boot on his own forty-five yard line, Bauroth scampered through the entire Quaker team, reversing his field to perfection before he was downed on the five yard line.

After one attempt Joe Conti took it across from the two yard line. Conti also added the extra point by his place-kick.

In the last few minutes of the fray Dom Sagolla intercepted a Quaker pass on the fifteen yard line and ran across from this point. Sag had wonderful quick forming interference on his run. Tony Orazi hit the line for the conversion.

A great exhibition of sportsmanship was portrayed when Tony Orazi in an attempt to give one of the linemen a score tossed a lateral. In his attempt he was forced to slow up and as the result he was tackled from behind. He was injured in the play—a dislocated shoulder—which will keep him from the fadeout on Thanksgiving Day with Morrisville High.

Al Profy, John Messinelli, and Dom Sagolla, all Seniors playing their next to last game of the campaign, played great ball. Carm Mignoni also played a charging game at the tackle spot.

Bristol High piled up 11 first downs to the homesters one. They outplayed the lads of Czech Stoneback all the way.

On Wednesday Coach "Beef" Monaco's fifth stringers will play their second and last contest of the year when they meet a J. V. team from St. Ann's coached by one of the Saints' backs—Nick Gallone.

The fifth stringers lost their first ball game on Friday when the Bensalem Freshman club defeated the lads by the count of 12-0.

BOWLING LEAGUES TO ENTER FINAL ROUND

The four bowling leagues this week are entering into the home stretch, the third and final round of the first half.

The Bristol league has been a close race from the start with changes in positions each week.

The Bristol Bowling Club was leading two weeks ago until it met the paper makers, one of the supposedly easy teams, but when the battle was over B. B. C. came out with a complete setback, having lost all four points. This put No. 1 Fire Co. in first place. 3. B. C. came right back last week and beat No. 1 three points and P. P. 2. took two from R. & H. which ouches the three teams together with only one point difference between first and third place. Wednesday night No. 1 and R. & H. meet to battle for first place.

The K. of C. had the National League sewed up until last week when they lost four points to R. & H. and one to Schmidt's, to mount their total to nine losses. R. & H. show a total of 12 losses which includes four points, which are under protest pending until next meeting.

LAMBERTVILLE AIDED BY PENALTIES IN GRID GAME

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Nov. 25.—Aided and abetted by penalties totaling fifty-five yards, the Lambertville Ramblers eked out a 6-0 victory over the St. Ann's A. A. gridders on the high school field here yesterday afternoon.

The Bristol team was penalized severely in the first few minutes of the game, the faults being from five yards off-sides to fifteen yards for slugging. As a result of the yardage given to the Ramblers and the discouragement of the Purple and Gold club, the pigskin was carried to the five yard line where Bobby Masterson carried it over on a line thrust. The try for the extra point failed.

From then on it was a fighting St. Ann's club battling the Jerseyites. They ripped off first down after first down and twice had the horsehide within the shadow of the goal posts but on each occasion, the Lambies tightened like a shell and prevented the Bristol backs from penetrating the their defense. On three plays in the third quarter, the Bucks County champions netted forty yards but with the cross-bars but a short distance away failed to register on their scoring plays.

The snow on the field marred the playing of both clubs. The linemen failed to gain footing and several times it appeared as if backfield men were off on good runs only to slip and have the officials down the ball.

The "Saints" will close its 1935 season next Sunday, meeting the Bristol Recreation team in its banner tilt of the season.

Troubles Grow in China

Chang Chow, Nov. 25.—A pro-Japanese autonomous state of four million people was ignored today when Chiang Kai-Shek, China war ruler by the new change of state, immediately fell into trouble.

Chinese officials became alarmed when Kenji Daihara, super representative of the army, appealed at Peiping this afternoon.

Efforts were made to spread the autonomous government, but they ran into difficulty at Tientsin, where 300 soldiers under the defensive association fixed the rule in the city. Officials were at a loss to deal with the move.

TWIN ACCIDENTS

ST. JOHN, N. B.—(INS)—Those who scoff at an "affinity" between twins should read this true story of what happened here. Walter and Richard Evans are 45-year-old twins and are as alike as two peas. Working on the waterfront here, Walter had his left hand crushed in an accident. At exactly the same time a dynamite cap exploded a few miles away and injured the left hand of his twin brother Richard.

CAT GUARDS GRAVE

MUNICH—(INS)—For 7 months

a tom cat has been guarding the grave of his master, a fishmonger, at Rehau, North Bavaria. Although not present at the funeral, which took place in March, the cat found its way to the grave. Since then, from dawn to sunset every day, the cat lies on the grave, spitting at all who come near. Often he has to be brought home at night by force for feeding.
